"Some Quaker Families - Scarborough/Haworth"

Collated by Roger Boone, Published by Marjorie Morgan

Editor's Note: Both Roger Boone and Marjorie Morgan have passed away.

Roger S. Boone of Springfield, Ohio, spent over ten years researching and collating the Scarbrough/Haworth families.

Mrs. Marjorie B. Morgan's background was Quaker. She was raised on a farm in a small southwestern Kansas community. She was a graduate of Friends University, Wichita, KS. and Kansas State University, Emporia, KS. In 1986, she retired early from the Wichita Public Schools, making it possible to pursue personal interests -- especially genealogy. She had been doing research for over 35 years, and was the former editor of the quarterly magazine for the Mid-west Genealogical Society.

Roger had asked Marjorie Morgan to prepare his data for publication, with the following goals:

1. to provide an opportunity for family members to up-date their family information for publication,

2. to collect photos and documents relevant to the Scarborough/Haworth family,

3. to publish a quarterly newsletter, and

4. to prepare and publish the story of the Scarborough/Haworth family.

The results are 7 volumes, 4,401 pages of data, photos, stories, and documents.

Summary:

Volume 1 contains the story of John Scarborough, Jr., his daughter Sarah, and George Haworth, who married Sarah. Volumes 2-5 continue the information on the growing families. In addition, Volume 5 contains many early family documents including letters from George Haworth to his family in England and the deed to John Scarborough for his land in Bucks Co., PA. from William Penn. How to order this publication:

Lowell Scarbrough wrote:

"These handsome volumes are very expensive to produce and a joy to possess. Not the usual, how to, genealogy fare, but filled with family information, facts and data. The margin on them is minimal. They are interactive and I recommend owning the complete set. Hardbound. Above volumes sold separately add up to $479.95."

Note; Volumes 3 and 4 are now sold out.

A Memorial Record For Friends and Relatives

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil: my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall
You had a kindly word for each and died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart that loved us well and true,
Ah, bitter was the trial to part from one so good as you.

You are not forgotten loved one
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore
As time goes by, we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face
No one can fill your vacant place.

Avon Community Schools And Washington Township

Forward

This writing of the history of Washington Township was undertaken to teach students historical research and writing and to stimulate appreciation for those people who gave us our heritage. This is a large task for eight grade students, but I must commend them for the job they have done. They have worked many hours after school and on week-ends, taking their tape recorders with them to interview people, digging through old records, and finally writing the history itself.

I am most proud of your authors:

Washington Township did not come into being until 1824 when Hendricks County was created. For centuries before this time, it was populated only by roving Indian tribes. The Delaware and Piankishaw Indians used this county as a hunting grounds. There is no record of any permanent Indiana villages, although temporary villages undoubtedly were made while the tribes hunted this land.

It was not until the 1600's that France claimed the vast area of land between Appalachian and Rocky Mountains. It is probable that during that time the first white men, being trappers and explorers, visited what was to be Hendricks County, of which Washington Township is but a small portion; this became English Territory following the French and Indian War of 1763. The area finally became a part of the United act of the United States Continental Congress, the area that now includes the states of Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana became the Northwest Territory. In 1800 the Indiana Territory was organized and settlement of the territory by Americans began.

Washington Township did not come into being until 1824 when Hendricks County was created. For centuries before this time, it was inhabited only by roving Indian tribes. The Delaware and Piankeshaw Indians used this territory as a hunting grounds. There is no record of any permanent Indian villages, although occasional passages and camps were made while the tribes hunted this land.

It was not until the 1600's that France claimed the vast valley area between the Allegheny and Rocky Mountains. It is evident that during this time the first white men, being trappers and explorers, traveled what was to be Hendricks County, of which Washington Township is but a small portion. It became English territory following the French and Indian War of 1763. Through the Ordinance Act of the United States Continental Congress, the area that now includes the states of Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana became the Northwest Territory. In 1800 the Indiana Territory was organized and settlement of the territory by farmers and

The land in the southern part of the state was opened by treaty while Indiana was still a territory. However, it was not until after Indiana became a state in 1816 that the first Governor, Jonathon Jennings, negotiated the treaty of St. Marys in 1818 which opened up for settlement all the area south of the Wabash River. Hendricks County was part of this "New Purchase of 1818". According to the terms of the treaty, the Indiana living in the area had three years to remove themselves west of the Mississippi River. With the Indians gone, settlement took place rapidly.

Early History of Hendricks County

Hendricks County was created December 20, 1823 by Act of Indiana Legislature. The name Hendricks was chosen to honor the second and then Governor of Indiana, William Hendricks. It was not until April of 1825 that the county government was organized and elected officers began their duties. The population of the county was approximately 1,000 in 1825. Although the county government was of primitive form, judged by todays complex structures, the essential office necessary to a democratic government were established. Before the first court house was constructed, county business was transacted in private homes. The Historical Atlas of Hendricks County records the first circuit court was held at the house of William Ballard of Danville on October 25, 1824. The judge was Hon. W.W. Wick. There were no prisoners that first day and no jail to put them in if there had been. Most of the court records show petit offenses tried in the early years. One important criminal case was tried in August 1827, that of Samuel J. Barlow. He was convicted of manslaughter of George Mallock and sentenced to the penitentiary for one year. However, his sentence was disputed, and $300 bond was posted by Thomas Lockhard, Samuel Jessup, John Ballard and Able Stanley. The right of trial by jury was never abused in the county.

While county government established, the population of the county continued to grow. The rapid growth can be attributed to the Cumberland or National Road (now highway 40) which passed through the newly organized land around 1830. This road was the only road that connected the pioneer wilderness of Indians with civilization east of the Appalachian Mountains. It is recorded in several sources that a steady stream of immigrants in wagons filled this road going west. Because this county was organized and money could be made by erecting hotels and inns along the road, many immigrants decided to settle in Hendricks County instead of pushing on west in Indian territory in Illinois. Most of the settlement was made in the central and southern townships of the county, because such townships as Union, Brown, Lincoln and Middle had poor drainage in which mosquitoes bred. There mosquitoes infected pioneers with the ague, a dreaded disease, causing chills, fever and violent shaking. (We know today that it was a form of malaria.) Although the first settlement in the county had been White Lick Creek, north of Mooresville, in the year 1820, Washington Township was one of the earliest townships to be settles.

Early History of Washington Township

The first settlement in Washington Township was near Shiloh Church in the northeast corner of the township. Robert Wilson, Gideon Wilson and Elish Kisi built log cabins and began to clear newly purchased land in 1822. The next year Daniel Tryer, Aaron Homan, the Grigges and Joseph Fousett settled in the same neighborhood. In the same year, 1823, the western part of the township was settled by James Dunn, John Givens and Abner Dunn, for whom Abner's Creek was named. Other pioneers who came into the township over the next ten years were William Hadley, David Cox, Glen McCammock, G.W. Merritt, Enoch Barlow, James Siggurson, Absalom Payne, O.J. Huron, John Smoot, the Rosses, Gossetts, Barkers, Thornberrys, Hurons, Heffords and Jenkins. Other pioneers settled in the township during this period 1822-32, but records are not available to determine who they were or where they settled. (A biography of some of the settlers is listed at the end of this writing.) The deeds to the land purchased by the pioneers were written on sheepskin and purchased directly from the U.S. Government.

These pioneers when making their homes faced many problems and hardships. Before they built their cabins, they had to make a "clearing". Trees had to be cut and stumps removed. All this was done with such crude tools as the adz, frow, and axe.

After the clearing was made, all the neighbors of the settler helped him make a suitable cabin. First they cut about twenty logs of about the same diameter. There were long logs for the sides and shorter ones for the ends. Each log was notched and laid one upon the other. Poles were laid across the top and clapboards covered them to make a roof. The sides were chinked and the cabin was completed.

There was always the danger of disease, the pioneers greatest enemy. Ague, milk sickness, and cholera were dreaded diseases. Most families lost at least one child while raising a family. The pioneers' strength was found in his religion.

Churches

In the winter of 1822-23 there was a Methodist preaching in the home of Robert Wilson in the northeast corner of Washington Township. It is near the present site of Shiloh Church.

Robert Wilson organized the first Methodist Church class in 1823. Members of the class were Robert Wilson, Gideon Wilson, David Tryer, Elisha Kise, their wives and a few others. The was the first class organized in Hendricks County. It was continued at the home of Robert Wilson until 1827. In that year they built the first Methodist Meeting House in the county.

During the winter the meeting house was used without floor or daubing. Sometimes it was so cold they had to retreat to Robert Wilson's house.

Shiloh's first ministers were circuit riders. The first circuit rider was Joseph Tarkington, the grandfather of Booth Tarkington, the famous Hooiser author. Joseph Tarkington walked twelve miles to his first job on the White Lick circuit because his horse died en route.

In Joseph's first day on the circuit he had these doubts, questions, and comments.

"I stopped at Col. Paxton's, northwest corner of Washington and Pennsylvania Streets, and was introduced to him as a Methodist preacher on foot and hunting his circuit in the wilds of White Lick. The colonel made me welcome."

"On Sunday morning Nehemiah Griffith was to deliver his Valedictory and start Monday for Ft. Wayne Mission, but Armstrong, who had been appointed Griffith's successor, came in, having ridden 15 miles that morning."

"Griffith would not preach and Armstong had to and did. He seemed full of fire. This was very pleasing to the Indianapolis people for they had the chills (ague) very badly that fall."

"After his sermon Armstrong asked if there was anyone from White Lick there, and a large man, Elijah Kise, rose and said "I am from that part of the world, and hunting a preacher." Armstrong asked him to come forward and he introduced him to me. Brother Kise was taking me with him when Armstrong said "Stop ! Your preacher is without a horse." In those days a horse was necessary to a preacher an an engine to a train. Said Kise to Armstrong "He's not as old as we have been in the habit of having!" "Never mind that," said Armstrong, "he will naturally grow older."

"Mr. Kise had ridden with his son and he put me on his son's horse, and took his son on behind him, and so I went home with my member and preached that night on my new circuit at Robert Wilson's house. Mr. Kise lived in the neighborhood of what is now Shiloh Church in Hendricks County."

"That year they built a log meeting house and called it Shiloh. William Gladden, the Wilsons, David Faucett and his boys were of that church."

"This was a good year on the circuit. Some 250 joined the church."

Rev. Tarkington made mention that his salary for the year was $ 65.

During and after Rev. Tarkington's pastorate the White Lick Circuit consisted of Clermont, Shiloh, Wesley and Bartlett Chapel. Later Clermont was dropped from the circuit and it became known as Avon Circuit.

Comments concerning the importance of churches during pioneer times were collected by Mrs. Mary McClain.

"Though the people could pay their preachers little in those days, the preacher and the people struggled together. Each knew the other's trials, and truly each in their way ministered to each other." (from Rev Tarkington's Autobiography).

The Shiloh Church is still in use today although the present church was built in 1902.

Other churches in the township that were established after Shiloh are White Lick Presbyterian located where the present church now stands; Abners Creek, located on road 150; Bartlett Chapel on highway 36, a little farther west of the present church.

Pioneer Attitudes

Politically, Washington Township was Whig until the party dissolved. The Republican Party came into being early in the 1850's. Only once, in 1832, did we vote Democratic (this was when we support Andrew Jackson), but this was before the Whig party came into being.

The first general election in Washington Township was held August 7, 1826, at the home of Daniel C. Hults, and the following people voted: Sidney Williams, Daniel C. Hults, James Merritt, Joseph Runyan, Isaac Williamson, Daniel B. Tryer, James Higgenbotham, Joseph Phillips, Williams S. Merrill, Robert Wilson and John Triggs.

The early pioneers believed in law and order. In order to insure that the law was kept, the small community elected not one, but two, constables each year. The names of these people who served as constable are listed at the end of this writing.

Roads

The first road was a wilderness road. It was chopped through forests from the Wabash River to Indianapolis.

The most important road in this area was built in 1830, and was called the "National Road." The National Road was located in the southeast corner of Washington Township. This road was very important because it brought many settlers from the eastern part of the United States. This brought trade and prosperity to this section of the territory. Since there were many settlers coming into the area, every farmhouse became a hotel. In the spring when there was much rain, the roads became impassable with mud. In some instances, the horses would sink to their stomach in this mud.

Many of the roads came about by paths of roads made by circuit riders and residents. Two instances of roads made by circuit riders and residents are the roads to Plainfield and Danville which are now State Road #267 and US Highway 36. These roads also became impassable in the spring. Travel by wagon was never fast or comfortable, but it was the only available means of transportation.

Schools in Washington Township

It is not certain where the first school was located, but it is claimed that Gideon Hufford taught the first school in Washtinton Township located near Whitelick Presbyterian Church in 1829; but it is tolerably certain that there was a school three years before in the eastern part of the township at Shiloh Settlement.

The earliest schools were log schools houses. One such school was run by Michael McClain, and was located just east of Vestal Road in a wooded area.

The first schools were subscription schools. This meant that the parents wishing their children to be educated personally paid the teacher. Teachers often received their pay in the form of food and a place to live. This form of education was changed under the Constitution of 1851 to provide a public school system.

Occupation

The major occupation of this area was farming. Farming was extremely difficult because of primitive tools, and there was no available means to get their products to market other than the National Road.

Establishment of Avon

The first post office was established in 1833 and was headed by Absalom Payne. This was the Hampton Post office. This post office and the others following received weekly mail from the eastern part of the United States.

Following Absalom Payne was Dr. Malone acting as the second postmaster of Hampton Post office. After. Dr. Malone's retirement W.T. Ross became the third postmaster, but when he retired from postmaster the post office died and so did the name Hampton.

In 1852 O.J. Huron was persuaded to accept a commission and he named the post office White Lick. This post office was located in his cabin 1/4 mile west of what is now Avon. It was in operation only 5 months and then Mr. Huron retired and it ceased being.

John Smoot was the pack-peddler of this area and made weekly visits here by horse and wagon. Mr. Smoot leased some ground in the corner of J.H. Ross' yard in 1858 and built a small one room store. This was the first store and was the beginning of the town of Avon. However, all did not progress smoothly because "Mr. Ross was a strong Republican and Mr. Smoot an ardent Democrat, and it was not long until Smoot moved his store to Democrat ground, which was across the road on the land of J. Dickerson; and thus at the very first the town began to move."

Mt. Smoot was unable to purchase a lot from Mr. Dickerson, so in November 1862, he purchased a lot a mile west from R.J. Barker and moved his store on log sleds that winter. The "town" moved west. Mr. Smoot's store prospered and in 1867 he headed a petition to Washington for another post office and for Mr. R.M. Bartley to be made postmaster. No name was suggested for the town so the Post office Department named our town Smootsdell because Mr. Smoots name headed the petition. Later the name of the town was changed by a surveyor made fun of the name Smootsdell and said "I'll name the town." He then penciled "New Philadelphia" on a stake and drove it down. However, when the railroad was completed the company drove another stake with "Avon" painted on it. The people liked the name and petitioned to have the post office name changed. This was the last changed of name for the town.

Before the Civil War businesses, excepting the store existed. Sugar maple camps existed near the present Carter Addition and Jessup Addition. A sorghum mill also operated near Six Points.

The Civil War marks the end of the pioneer period in Avon. With the start of the war the majority of the able bodied young men in the community join the Union Army. A list of those men and where they are buried is at the end of this writing.

Business in a Growing Community

After the Civil War the major occupation was agriculture. A family raised the majority of its own food.

By 1877 several new businesses had sprung up. Barker's sawmill was in operation on the west side. Shipman's wagon shop opened at about the same time on the east side. In the north Merritt's nursery opened and he began raising and selling trees and plants. The Danville Republican reported, "We have two stores, the one kept by R.M. Bartley and the other by the Barker brother. The former has the postoffice, the latter the telegraph office. At both stores they keep almost everything from a two-cent piece down to a sack of coffee." There was a doctor in the township, a Doctor Rahan who lived in the house that was recently razed at the corner of Highways 267 and 36. Another business was Tooley's blacksmith shop. A new office was leased to J.M. Carter for a buggy house in 1879. There were also three tile factories in this area.

The number of stores in the township varied from two to four in the late 1880's and 1890's.

With the coming of the Big Four Railroad, shortly after the Civil War, the location of the town was to be determined by the location of the depot. Therefore, there was extensive competition between the east and the west sides of town (the dividing line being highway 267) over the location. When the Big Four people heard of these disputes they used them in securing bonuses by placing the depot on the side of town paying the highest amount of money. The depot was first placed 1/2 mile west of highway 267. Next it was moved on the road, then the east side used its influence to have it moved 3/4 of a mile east, "where trains stopped at an old boxcar in the middle of a farm for passengers, and patrons carried trunks down the track till they were tired, then changed hands and carried again." The west side again won the station until 1891 when private citizens bought a small yellow dwelling and moved it to the crossing a mile east, and the company slid its telegraph office into it. "The old sad look came again to the westsider's face; the company saw the look and smiled, then moved their station also to the yellow dwelling, using it for all purposes until 1894, when, with generous help of the east-sider citizens, the company erected a neat three-room building." The tug of war over the depot finally ceased when the railroad moved its depot three miles east to Spray Station.

In 1900, shortly after the demise of the deport, the post office also went out of being. Then the first rural free delivery was established.

Although two important businesses were lost, Avon held its own until one of the greatest booms in transportation (at that time) came on September 1, 1906. The Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern traction line was opened through Avon. This was only a part of the state interurban system. Crowds of people used the interurban daily. The following is an example as quoted from the Danville Republican. "The daily crowds proved so overwhelming, it was necessary to provide additional coached, thereby decreasing the power supply." The brick building on the northwest corner of S.R. 267 and U.S. 36 was built as a power house in order to boost the power to the required strength.

The interurban ran approximately every hour, from early morning to midnight. The interurban was discontinued about 1930.

Thanks to the better school facilities and competent business men and their businesses Avon has steadily grown larger and better.

Post Civil War Schools

The following is a list of all schools in Washington Township in the year 1878. The numbers of schools varied from year to year.

School #1: Frazer- It was located halfway between Tenth Street and Wall Street Pike on Shiloh Road.
School #2: Red School- It was located on the old lane between Tenth Street and Wall Street Pike, one-quarter of a mile east of State Road #267.
School #3: Kraften- It was located one-quarter of a mile east of #475 on #150 north.
School #4: King- It was located at the top of the hill on U.S. 36, one-quarter of a mile east of Abners Creek.
School #5: Avon- It was located where the fire station now stands in Avon.

School #6: It was located one mile eat of County Line Road on U.S. #36, north side. This building still stands.
School #7: Sic Points- It was located on Bradford Road, one-quarter of a mile from Six Points Road.
School #8: It was located on Bradford Road, one quarter of a mile from Dan Jones Road.
School #9: It was located on State Road #267, one-quarter of a mil south of Jessup Road.
School #10: Hoadly School- It was located on Vestal Road.

All the above schools were only for grades one through eight, with the exception of Avon. Avon offered a three-year high school course in the late 1800's to 1917, when it was abandoned for a new consolidated school.

The present Avon Consolidated School was built in 1917. The following people were elected to the Advisory Board: Abram Hoadley, president; E.H. Ross, secretary; and Wm. T. Walton, treasurer. The trustee was G.M. Roark. Charles Overpeck was the principal, and the first graduating class consisted of Russell Blair and Mary Davis. Classes averages from 10 to 20 per class from the 1920's until about 1955. Since that time the school enrollment has expanded rapidly. Our present school system is operated by a school board.

Attitudes of the Growing Town

The majority of the elections in Washington Township have gone to the Republican Party since the organization of that party. Very few people ever ran on the Democratic ticket.

Religion was a dominant factor in the daily life of the people. Their principles and morals were based on their religious beliefs. Methodist and Baptist churches were still the main denominations. The churches were regularly attended and Sunday Schools were organized.

The people of this township felt an honest day's work was the mark of a worthwhile citizen. Any person failing in his duties to his family and community was chastised by all residents of the community.

A good example of this scorn is found in the Danville Republican, February 8, 1883: "A field of corn east of here was left untended until picking." It is certain that everyone in this small community knew whose field it was, and it is probable that it was never again left untended. Life was becoming easier and leaving more time for leisure with all the advances of technology following the Civil War. Many of the people worked practically all of the time, but they also had parties, dances, and church clubs.

The church clubs had regular get-togethers. There were singing parties, birthday parties, programs by the children in schools and churches.

Social clubs other than church clubs planned parties and helpful deeds for their community. As given in an account from the Danville Republican paper: "The Olds Maids Club decided to have a leap year party on May Day, and accordingly issued invitations, and as the "boys" were bashful and busy plowing, the Old Maids promised that if the boys would attend they would help one day in corn planting."

There were also chataquas. This was a musical program that lasted for about a week. Mrs. Vivian Smith, who is still a resident of Washington Township, has heard John Philip Sousa perform at a chataqua.

Many times before a soldier left for World War I, his church gave a program in honor of him.

The people of this era had finally begun to have time for social gatherings.

Topography

One the east line of Hendricks county is located Washington Township, bounded on its north side by Lincoln and Middle townships, on the east by Marion county, on the south side by Guilford and Liberty, and on the west by Center township. White Lick creek flows across the west side of this township and the East fork of the same creek touches the southeast corner. Along the creek valley the land is rolling and fertile; the central and eastern portion of the civil division is very level and, before the day of artificial drainage, was rather swampy. It was not, however, equal to other townships in this respect. The early growth of timber, now gone, was largely composed of beech, but embraced many valuable varieties. The soil is clay and alluvial, being well adapted to grasses and grain.

Early Days

The first settlement in Washington township was made in the northeast corner, near the site of Shiloh church, by Robert Wilson, Gideon Wilson and Elisha Kise in the year 1822: The next year came Daniel Tryer, Aaron Homan, the Griggs family, Joseph Fausett and others came into the same neighborhood in the same year, 1823, James Dunn settled on the Rockville road. Among those who came into the township within the next few years were David Cox, Alexander McCammock, Enoch Barlow and his sons Harvey and Harrison, the Thornbroughs, Hurons, Huffords and Gossetts.

This township was one of the four which were organized at the same time as the organization of Hendricks county and received its name from George Washington at the suggestion of Aaron Homan, who was the first justice of the peace and married the second couple to be wedded in the county.

First Election

The first general election in Washington township was held August 7, 1826, at the home of Daniel C. Hults, and eleven persons voted. These were: Sidney Williams, Daniel C. Hults, James Merritt, Joseph Runyan, Isaac Williamson, Daniel B. Tryer, James Higgenbotham, Joseph Phillips, Williams S. Merrill, Robert Wilson and John Triggs. In its political history, Washington township was at first Whig and after the death of that party followed the fortunes of the Republican organization.

Avon

Avon, the capital of Washington township, is at a point very near the center of the township. The first settlement of the neighborhood was about the year 1830. Among the first settlers were the Hurons, the Rosses, the Gossetts, the McClains, the Jenkinses, Abram Harding, Absalom Payne, Dr. Malone R. J. Baker, G.W. Merritt and James Siggurson. It was dense forest everywhere; deer and wolves were a common sight; but in small clearings little cabins of round logs sprang up and in a very short time this became a "neighborhood". The whole settlement was made up of people of energy and enterprise who came here to make a home that was to be their home, so their plans took in the question of church and school and roads and a post office. In 1833 Absalom Payne, who entered the land and lived where J. H. Wear now lives, was commissioned postmaster of Hampton post office, with a weekly mail carried on horseback from the east to the west, but no one remembers where from or where to. In a few years Mr. Payne tired of the empty honor and the office passed to Dr. Malone, where J.H. Winings lives, and a little later to W.T. Ross, where E.E. Blair now lives. Mr. Ross also tired of the office and, no one else wanted it, it was allowed to die, and Hampton was no more. In 1852 O.J. Huron, newly married, was persuaded to accept a commission as postmaster, naming the office White Lick and locating it in his log cabin, one-forth mile west of present Avon. Just three months satisfied Mr. Huron and White Lick died and was laid away in memory, besides Hampton. Along in the fifties John Smoot began making visits here as a pack-peddler; soon he added a horse and wagon and came weekly, and , after a time, about 1858, leased ground and built a small room in the corner of J.H. Ross's yard, where William Shipman now lives. Smoot emptied his pack and put a few items on a few shelves, and this was the beginning of the town. But Mr. Ross was a strong Republican and Mr. Smoot an ardent Democrat, and it was not long Smoot moved his store to Democratic ground, across the road, on the land of John Dickerson, and thus, at the very first the town began to move. Mr. Dickerson not being willing to sell a lot to Mr. Smoot, the latter sought one elsewhere and, November 1, 1862, R. J. Barker deeded Smoot a half acre a mile farther west and the following winter he moved his store on a couple of logsleds to his own lot; this was the third town site. Mr. Smoot prospered and enlarged his store and added more goods, and in 1867 he headed a petition to Washington for a postoffice, and for R.M. Bartley's to be made postmaster, but no name was suggested for the new office, and the authorities used the fist name on the petition; when Mr. Bartley's commission, dated April 28, 1868 reached him it gave the office the picturesque name, Smootsdell, located it in Smoot's store and gave us two mails a week, carried horseback from Plainfield by D.S. Barker. When the I. & St. L. railroad was being surveyed, the man who, with a blue pencil, marked the stakes, made fun of the name of out post office, and said, "I'll name the town." Artistically he penciled "New Philadelphia" on a stake and drove it down. When the road was completed the company drove another stake, with "Avon" painted on it. The people liked the name and petitioned to have the post office name changed to Avon. This was done and Smootsdell was laid ways beside Hampton and White Lick. In May, 1871, Mr. Smoot sold all his property, building, lot and goods to Mr. Bartley and moved to Kansas. A little later the Barker brothers erected a building at the railroad crossing, put a stock of goods in one room, the other being used by the company. The Barkers soon tired of the store and quit, then J.L.

Middleton, in 1875, added a general store to his shoe shop south of the railroad. In 1889 E.T. Huron was made postmaster and purchased the Middleton store, In 1893 William Taylor became the postmaster. Mr. Taylor was full of enterprise and built a new post office building and put in a stock of goods, and Avon, for the first time, had three stores at one time. For the very first there was a rivalry, among the people as to the location of the post office and the future town; the east side wanted it and the west side wanted it more. The Big Four folks soon learned of this feeling and sought to use it in securing bonuses. The station was at first a half mile west of the Plainfield road, then on the road, then three-fourths of a mile east, where trains stopped at an old box-car in the middle of a farm for passengers, and patrons carried trunks down the track till they were tired, then changed hands and carried again. The west side complained and grumbled, than begged and finally won the station, and thought themselves secure, but in 1891 private citizens bought a little yellow dwelling and moved it to the crossing a mile east, and the company slid its telegraph office into it. The old sad look came again to the west-sider's face; the company saw the look and smiled, then moved their station also to the yellow dwelling, using it for all purposes until 1894, when, with generous help of east-side citizens, the company erected a neat three-room building. The eastside countenance broadened; the little yellow dwelling was sold again and this time was moved three miles away, when it ceased to worry the west side, with three stores and the post office left. In 1900 the first rural free delivery in the county, and among the first in state, was established in Danville, route No. 1, and its first delivery was made April 2nd, of that year. While this has proven one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed on the common people, it crippled the Avon post office, reducing the salary from thirty-five dollars to six dollars per quarter, and when, on November 1, 1902, the first Plainfield route was opened and passed the Avon post office door, the office was discontinued, and now Hampton, White Lick, Smootsdell and Avon all lie buried side by side. But the town survived, holding its own till the Terre Haute, Indianapolis & Eastern traction line was opened, September 1, 1906, when it began to improve and has continued to do so, until today its two general stores sell several times the amount of goods sold ten, and property values have about trebled.

Records indicate that Joshua's death occurred in July or October 1839, and that his gravestone reads July. The former must be correct, since his will was signed in June of 1839 and probated in July of the same year. According to court records distribution and closure of the estate did not occur until 14 years later on July 22, 1853. Phebe died in 1855 still a widow, but is not mentioned in the final settlement.

Federal Bill Threatens Access to Birth Certificates

UPDATED 14 November 2004

Two bills which are currently working their way through Congress concern genealogists. House Bill 10 (H.R. 10), known as "The 9/11 Recommendations Implementation Act," and Senate Bill 2845 (S. 2845), the "National Intelligence Reform Act of 2004," both aim to reform the intelligence community, as recommended by the 9/11 Commission. Parts of these bills aim to establish standards for all of the states when it comes to vital records. Section 3063(d)(2) of H.R. 10 requires each state to "Restrict public access to birth certificates and information gathered in the issuance process to ensure that access is restricted to entities with which the State has a binding privacy protection agreement.".

Section 1026(b)(3)(B) of S. 2845 says that the Secretary of Health and Human Services "shall establish requirements for proof and verification of identity as a condition of issuance of a birth certificate, with additional security measures for the issuance of a birth certificate for a person who is not the applicant;"

Congress returns on Tuesday, November 16 for a "lame duck session," to finish the work of the 108th Congress. The House and Senate are working on a bill which combines both the House and Senate versions, so that it can be voted on by the full Congress. H.R. 10 and S. 2845 were both voted on in October and passed by large margins (282-134 and 96-2, respectively). The House's Judiciary Committee has until November 19th to submit a report on proposed changes to the bill's language.

The Records Preservation and Access committee of the Federation of Genealogical Societies is urging Congress not to pass this bill without an exception for non-certified copies. Genealogists are urged to contact their House representatives and Senators about these bills.

WWI Draft Registration Cards

Hello there, Here is my info on WWI draft registration cards. Please be advised that some of this info is the property of others and is being used for nonprofit purposes.

World War I Draft Registration Cards

by Warren Blatt

INTRODUCTION:

Over twenty-four million men registered for the draft for the First World War in 1917 and 1918. There were three draft registrations, which eventually included all men (whether native born, naturalized, or alien) between the ages of 18 and 45.

One unique feature of these records is that they contain the exact place of birth -- town/village, county/province, state/nation -- for registrants born between June 6, 1886 and August 28, 1897 (those aged 21-31 who registered in the 1st or 2nd drafts, about 45% of the total). This may be the ONLY source for determining the town of origin of someone who was never naturalized, or someone who was naturalized via their father's papers before 1906.

THREE REGISTRATIONS:

During World War I there were three registrations:
1 - The first, on June 5, 1917, was for all men between the ages of 21 and 31.
2 - The second, on June 5, 1918, registered those who attained age 21 after June 5, 1917. (A supplemental registration was held on August 24, 1918 for those becoming 21 years old after June 5, 1918. This was included in the second registration.)
3 - The third registration was held on September 12, 1918 for men aged 18 through 45.

At each of the three registrations, a different form was used, with a slight variation of questions asked. All three registrations include full name, home address, exact date of birth, age in years, occupation, name and address of employer, citizenship status, citizen of what country, race, eye color, hair color, height, build, city/county and state of the local draft board, date of registration, and signature of applicant (some in Yiddish!).

At the first registration, the following additional information was recorded: exact birthplace, dependents, marital status, previous military service, and grounds for exemption. At the second registration, the following were also recorded: exact birthplace, nearest relative and address, and father's birthplace. At the third registration, for men aged 18-21 and 31-45 (born between September 13, 1873 and September 12, 1900), the name and address of nearest relative were also recorded. Although the 2nd and 3rd drafts ask for name and address of nearest relative, they don't specify what the relationship is. Note that the third registration did NOT request birthplace.

The registration cards consist of 24.2 million cards of men who registered for the draft (about 23% of the American population in 1918).

ARRANGEMENT:

The records are arranged alphabetically by the name of the state; thereunder alphabetically by name of the county or city; thereunder by draft board (for large cities); thereunder alphabetically by the names of registrants.

For those in rural areas, one should be able to find a registrant's card by knowing his name and the county in which he registered. In large cities and in some large counties, the search can be more difficult -- knowing a street address is usually necessary to determine the correct draft board. For instance, there were 189 local boards in New York City, 86 in Chicago, and 25 in Boston. (See "Finding Aids" below).

AVAILABILITY:

The original draft registration cards are stored at the National Archives - Southeast Region near Atlanta. These records are currently being microfilmed by the Genealogical Society of Utah (The Mormons) for the National Archives. Since 1987, they have filmed states A-S alphabetically (plus Wisconsin), over 3,500 reels of microfilm thus far. They will soon complete the remaining states, T-W, and the resulting series will comprise National Archives Microfilm Publication M1509.

These microfilms are available at the Family History Library in Salt Lake City, and are thus available for borrowing through all local Family History Centers. The films are also available at the National Archives in Washington, and the twelve Regional Archives will receive the films for the states corresponding to their regions as filming proceeds.

HOW TO ACCESS:

You currently have two avenues to access these records:

either from the National Archives - Southeast Region, or via the Mormon Family History Centers.

To have the National Archives staff search these records for you, get a "World War I Registration Card Request" form, or send a letter to:

National Archives - Southeast Region
1557 St. Joseph Avenue
East Point, GA 30344
(404) 763-7477

Enclose a check for $10.00 for each request payable to "National Archives Trust Fund"; they will return your check if the record is not found. For each card requested, supply the full name, approximate date of birth, and the place of residence when he registered.
>A street address is required for urban areas<
The response time is about two weeks.

Alternately, you can search the records yourself, by borrowing microfilms through LDS Family History Centers. You can find the microfilm numbers in the Family History Library Catalog (FHLC) microfiche, in the Locality section under the heading "UNITED STATES - MILITARY RECORDS - WORLD WAR, 1914-1918", or on the FamilySearch computer CD-ROM under number 504818.

DETERMINING STREET ADDRESS:

Since large cities were comprised of many local draft boards, you must know the registrant's street address in 1917/1918 for an effective search. To determine someone's street address, you can use one of several sources.

City Directories are the most reliable, and can be found at most large public libraries, and through all LDS Family History Centers (see the FHLC Locality section under the headings "[State], [County], [City] - DIRECTORIES" or "UNITED STATES - DIRECTORIES" for larger cities).

Alternate sources are contemporary records which contain street addresses, such as birth, marriage and death records, wills, naturalization records and passenger lists. You can also use the address found in the 1920 Census, assuming that the family didn't move in the prior 2-3 years.

FINDING AIDS:

For several cities with a large number of draft boards, there are maps showing the draft board boundaries. These have been microfilmed by the Mormons on FHL film #1,498,803. The cities on this film are:

Albany, NY (4)
Allegheny Cty, PA (18)
Atlanta, GA (7)
Baltimore, MD (24)
Birmingham, AL (6)
Boston, MA (25)
Louisville, KY (7)
Los Angeles, CA (18)
Luzerne County, PA
Milwaukee, WI (15)
Minneapolis, MN (13)
New Orleans, LA (13)

Bridgeport, CT (6)
Buffalo, NY (16)
Dallas, TX
Denver, CO (9)
Chicago, IL (86)
Cleveland, OH (18)
Cincinnati, OH (10)
Washington, DC (11)
Hartford, CT (3)
Indianapolis, IN (10)
Jersey City, NJ (10)
Kansas City, KS (4)
New Haven, CT (6)
New York, NY (189)
Newark, NJ (14)
Philadelphia, PA (51)
Pittsburgh, PA (8)
Rochester, NY (8)
San Diego, CA (2)
St. Paul, MN (11)
Schenectady, NY (4)
Seattle, WA
Syracuse, NY (5)
Toledo, OH (6)

The number in parenthesis following the name is the number of local draft boards in that city. Some of these maps show the boundaries of the draft boards, while others are just street and road maps which are helpful to some degree. Some are discolored or faded from age, and can be difficult to use.

Subject: World War I Draft Registration Index

Ancestry Inc. adds new material on a regular basis. Some new ones this week are listed below. Each new database is available free for ten days before a subscription is necessary.

I found the World War I Draft Registration Index of particular value and I believe it is the one new one which may be of greatest interest to Jewish genealogists.

* The World War I Draft Registration Index Posted January 22nd.

Description: In 1917 and 1918, approximately 24 million men, (98% of men present in America), born between 1873 and 1900 completed draft registration cards. This civilian registration is often confused with induction into the military; however, a minority of those civilian men who registered were actually ever called up for military service. During these two years, three registration days were held in which the registrants completed a registration card that generally included, among other information: birth date, birth location, father's birth location, and the address of next of kin.

It should be noted that aliens were required to register but were not subject to induction into the American military. Persons already in the military did not register.

NOTE: This database represents approximately 8.5% of all counties nationwide, with complete coverage of Alaska, Delaware, Idaho and Nevada, and a good representation from California, Colorado, Florida, Kansas, Mississippi, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas and Utah.
(Note from Poster: I found many Manhatten and Brooklyn listings.)

Earth has lost its look of gladness,
Heaven seems to us more bright,
Since the spirit of our dear ones,
Took their happy homeward flight.

And we long to cross that river,
Long to rest upon that shore,
There to see and know and love them,
With the Savior, evermore.

BREW WORLD BREWERY BEER BEER LINKS

Dr. Heinrich Dieter Kiener
managing director

We cordially welcome you to Stiegl's Beer Page. For over 500 years, the Stiegl Brewery, Austria's largest private brewery, has produced the highest quality Salzburg beer - adding "gusto" to the community. Our latest contribution to the beer world is "Stiegl's Brauwelt" (Stiegl's Brew World) which we opened in 1995 in the oldest part of the Stiegl brewery located in Salzburg/Maxglan.

Stiegl's Brauwelt is comprised of a model brewery (Erlebnisbrauerei), the display "Welt des Biers" (World of Beer), the Stiegl - Museum and Stiegl's Braugewölbe (Brewing Vault).

After the children married, farming became harder as they grew older. They sold nearly all the cows except a few and started drawing Social Security. At the end of the year, they filed their income tax and after a certain amount, Uncle Sam took dollar for dollar. John Alvin threw up the red flag and said, "That's enough, I quit farming. I worked a long time as a tenant giving half. I don't have to do that now, so I'm through." They had Glen Birdwhistell sell the farm, sold the rest of the livestock, farm machinery, etc. They bought a home in Lawrenceburg on Highland and have been there for fourteen years. On 3-24-1990, they celebrated their 56th wedding anniversary. Submitted By: Hazel McGaughey.

After the children married, farming became harder as they grew older. They sold nearly all the cows except a few and started drawing Social Security. At the end of the year, they filed their income tax and after a certain amount, Uncle Sam took dollar for dollar. John Alvin threw up the red flag and said, "That's enough, I quit farming. I worked a long time as a tenant giving half. I don't have to do that now, so I'm through." They had Glen Birdwhistell sell the farm, sold the rest of the livestock, farm machinery, etc. They bought a home in Lawrenceburg on Highland and have been there for fourteen years. Phineas Pratt
His Perilous Journey

Bradford says, referring to Phineas, and his dangerous undertaking:—

"In ye meane time, came one of them from ye Massachucts with a small pack at his back, and though he knew not a foot of ye way yet he got safe hither, but lost his way, which was well for him for he was pursued, and so was mist. He tould them hear, how all things stood amongst them, and that he durst stay no longer, he apprehended they would be all knokt in ye head shortly."

(MD IV, 3, 133+) "In 1662 he presented to the General Court of the Massachusetts Bay Colony that interesting and valuable paper which he called "A Decliration of the Afaires of the Einglish People that first Inhabited New Eingland." Either accompanying or following this document was a petition on which the General Court took the following action May 7 of the same year (1662):—

(Mass. Bay Rcdls., IV:402) In Ansr: to. ye petition of. phineas Prat. of charls Toune. who presented this Court wth a narrative of the streights & hardships that the first planters of this Colony underwent in their endeavors to plant themselves at plimouth. & since wherof he was. one The Court judgeth it meet to Graunt him Three. hundred acres of land where it is to be had not hindering a plantation ."

In October, 1668, Phineas, then about 75 years old, presented another petition to the General Court at Boston in which, while expressing his thankfulness for the grant of land made him three years before in answer to his first petition, he refers to his physical infirmities and present lack of the actual necessities of life and entreats that he may receive some measure of support in his old age.

"Three times we fought with them, thirty miles I was pursued for my life, in time of frost, and snow, as a deer chased with wolves. Two of our men were kill'd in warr, one shot in the shoulder. It was not by the wit of man, nor by ye strength of the arme of flesh, that we prevailed against them. But God, that overrules all power, put fear in their hearts. And now seeing God hath added a New England to old Engl. and given both to our dread Soverg Lord King Charles the second, many thousand people enjoy the peace thereof; Now in times of prosperity, I beseech you consider the day of small things; for I was almost frozen in time of our weak beginnings, and now am lame. My humble request is for that may be for my subsistence the remaining time of my life. And I shall be obliged.
Your thankfull servant,
Phinehas Pratt.

His request was summarily denied:

The Deputyes Doe not Judge meete to graunt this petition, wth refference to the consent of or Honoed magists. hereto.
William Torrey, Cleric.

Old, lame and unable to adequately provide for himself, it was his townspeople who ultimately cared for him until the end as can be seen by numerous Town Orders in his behalf.

Weston & Pratt

The Disaster At Braintree

"they neither applyed themselves to planting of corne nor taking of fish, more than for their present use, but went about to built Castles in the Aire, and making of Forts, neglecting the plentifull time of fishing."

Within a few years of the Mayflower's arrival, a Thomas Weston, Ironmonger of England, determined to set up a new plantation at Massachusetts Bay. To prepare the way he embarked six or seven men in the ship Sparrow together with seamen and Mr. Rodgers, "master of the ship," for a total of about ten men. Among the passengers was Phineas Pratt. Sixty additional men would follow later.

According to Pratt's own account, the first sailing resulting in the following: "At this Time of our discouery, we first Ariued att Smithe's Ilands, first soe Caled by Capt. Smith, att the Time of his discouery of New Eingland, ... afterwards Caled Ilands of Sholes; ffrom thence to Cape Ann .... so Caled by Capt Mason; from thence to ye Mathechusits Bay. Ther we continued 4 or 5 days. Then we pseaued, yt on the south part of the Bay, weare fewest of the natives of the Cuntry Dwelling ther. We thought best to begine our plantation, but fearing A great Company of Salvages, we being but 10 men, thought it best to see if our friends weare Living at Plimoth. Then sayling Along the Cost, not knowing the harber, they shot of a peece of Ardinance, and at our coming Ashore, they entertaned vs wth 3 vally of shotts."

Phineas and his party reached Plymouth the last of May, 1622. Both Bradford and Winslow agree that the initial party had few provisions other than those sufficient, perhaps, to return to the Sparrow. Winslow says, "This Boat proued to be a shallop that belonged to a fishing ship, called the Sparrow, set forth by Master Thomas Weston, late Merchant and Citizen of London, which brought six or seuen passengers at his charge, that should before haue beene landed at our Plantation, who also brought no more prouision for the present than serued the Boats gang for their returne to the ship." While Bowan debates whether Phinias and the other men were supposed to have stayed in Plymouth or to have returned in the shallop to the ship Sparrow, the fact is they remained in Plymouth and, to quote Bowman, "In either case "8 or 9 weeks after" would bring the Charity and Swan to Plymouth the end of July or the first of August, 1622. Shortly thereafter about sixty "lusty" men would begin the ill-fated settlement at Wessagusset.

Levett says in his "Voyage into New England":—" they neither applyed themselves to planting of corne nor taking of fish, more than for their present use, but went about to built Castles in the Aire, and making of Forts, neglecting the plentifull time of fishing. When Winter came their forts would not keepe out hunger, and they hauing no provision beforehand, and wanting both powder and shot to kill Deare and Fowle, many were starved to death, and the rest hardly escaped. There are foure of his men which escaped, now at my plantation, who haue related unto me the whole businesse."

Weakened through lack of foresight, by the absence of provisions, harsh weather and isolation, the new plantation was vulnerable to Indian attack and decimation. And, in fact, such was the intent and for Plymouth, as well. . A passage from Winslow's account describes how the "treachery" became known; this event occurring while Miles Standish was at Canacum the Sachim's house.

"Captaine Standish being now far from the Boat, and not above two or three of our men with him, and as many with the shallop, was not long at Canacum the Sachims house, but in came two of the Massachuset men, the chiefe of them was called Witawamat, a notable insulting villaine, one who had formerly imbrued his hands in the bloud of English and French, and had oft boasted of his owne valour, and derided their weaknesse, especially because (as hee said) they died cryig, making sowre faces, more like children than men. This villaine tooke a dagger from about his necke, (which hee had gotten of Master Westons people) and presented it to the Sachim, and after made a long speech in an audacious manner, framing it in such sort, as the Captaine (though he be the best Linguist amongst us) could not gather anything from it.

The end of it was afterward discovered to be as followeth: The Massacheuseucks had formerly concluded to ruinate Master Westons Colonie, and thought themselves, being about thirty or forty men strong, enough to execute the same: yet they durst not attempt it, till such time as they had gathered more strength to themselves to make their party good against us at Plimoth, concluding, that if we remained, (though they had no other Arguments to use against us) yet we would never leave the death of our Countrymen unrevenged, and therefore their safety could not be without the overthrow of both Plantations. . ."

Winslow continues. "Before this journey we heard many complaints both by the Indians and some others of best desert amongst Master Westons Colony, how exceedingly their Company abased themselves by undirect meanes, to get victualls from the Indians, who dwelt not farre from them, fetching them wood and water, &c. and all for a meales meate, whereas in the meane time, they might with diligence have gotten enough to have served them three or foure times. Other by night brake the earth, and robbed the Indians store, for which they had beene publiquely stocked and whipt, and yet was there small amendment. This was about the end of February, at which time they had spent all their bread and come, not leaving any for seed, neither would the Indians lend or sell them any more upon any termes. Hereupon they had thoughts to take it by violence, and to that end spiked up every entrance into their Towne (being well impaled) save one, with a full resolution to proceed. But some more honestly minded, advised John Sanders their Over-seer first to write to Plimoth, and if the Governour advised him thereunto, he might the better doe it. This course was well liked, and an Indian was sent with all speede with a letter to our Governour.

The letter was not well received in Plymouth and by return letter the Weston group was put on notice that they "altogether disliked their intendment." None the less, Plymouth having being forewarned of an attack of their plantation through the Standish encounter, as well as by other means soon decided " That Captaine Standish should take so many men as he thought sufficient to make his party good against all the Indians in the Massachuset-bay; and because (as all men know that have had to doe in that kinde) it is impossible to deale with them upon open defiance, but to take them in such trappes as they lay for others; therefore hee should pretend trade as at other times: but first goe to the English and acquaint them with the plot . . ."

The next day, however, as Standish was making ready to go, Phineas Pratt arrived: "came one of Mr Westons Company by land unto us, with his packe at his backe, who made a pitifull narration of their lamentable and weake estate. . ." (See Pratt's narrative of his lonely and perilous journey through the wilderness to reach Plymouth) In short, however, Weston's colony was naked (having sold their clothes), starving (some died of same) and in desperate means.

Making haste Standish found the ship abandoned, the Weston men separated into groups and in sad affair. Pecksuot, who was a "Pinese", discerned that Standish had come to kill them, rather than to trade with them, challenged Standish, and "being a man of greater stature then the Captaine, told him "though hee were a great Captaine, yet hee was but a little man: and sayd he, though I be no Sachim, yet I am a man of great strength and courage." Standish bid his time, but finding himeself and his men in a room with this Pecksuot, Witawamat, and several others took the moment: "snatching his owne knife from his neck though with much struggling killed him (Pecksuot) therewith," while his men dispatched the others save a youth who was hanged. Hobbamocke, the faithful Indian from Plymouth, and there with Standish observed: "Yester-day Pecksuot bragging of his owne strength and stature, sayd, though you were a great Captaine yet you were but a little man; but to day I see you are big enough to lay him on the ground." In an ensuing battle the remaining Indians fled and Standish "returned to Plimouth, whither hee came in safety (blessed be God) and brought the head of Wituwamat with him." Obtakiest the Massachuset Indian Sachim was not among the slain.

But what happened to this sad and tattered plantation? "Now were Mr Westons people resolved to leave their Plantation and goe for Munhiggen, hoping to get passage and returne with the fishing ships. The Captaine told them, that for his owne part hee durst there live with fewer men then they were, yet since they weare otherwayse minded, according to his orders from the Governours and people of Plimouth he would helpe them with corne competent for their [p. 45] provision by the way, which hee did, scarce leaving himselfe more then brought them home. Some of them disliked the choyce of the body to go to Munhiggen, and therfore desiring to goe with him to Plimouth, he tooke them into the shallop: and seeing them set sayle and cleere of the Massachuset bay, he tooke leave and returned to Plimouth, whither hee came."

The George Washington Crew

It was a beautiful, sun-filled sky that early morning of August 18, 1944. The crew members were carefree, laughing, joking as they proceeded toward the hardstand where their B-24J was parked. The smiles and laughter ceased when they realized that they weren't heading towards their regular aircraft. Disappointed as they were, they proceeded with the preflight checklist. The inspections indicated the aircraft was airworthy but in need of service. Their pilot, George Washington, gave two reasons why the crew should fly this mission. The first was the target- the Roye Air Base, home to a German fighter group that had been raising havoc for the Allied ground forces. The second reason was more selfish. This mission would put the crew one mission closer to going home. It was a short mission, no expected fighter opposition and "light flak". Two B-24s fell from the sky that morning. Twenty young Eighth Air Force airmen came to a fiery end, victims of the "light flak" over the target. For them, the shortest mission became their longest mission and only one crew member eventually returned home.

The Museum is a 90,000 square foot facility containing one of the most impressive collections of air war memorabilia in the world, powerful oral histories from those who were there, gripping photomurals, fascinating audio-visual presentations, and an immersion theater where visitors "fly" a mission over Nazi Germany. These elements come together to create what one visitor described as "an overwhelming patriotic feeling for the men and women of this great nation who served so valiantly and without reservation." A 6,700-volume research library, extensive archive, full service restaurant, and museum store add to the enjoyment of a day spent at the Museum.

Veterans can be recognized by name, rank, and unit number incised on a handsome, 4 x 12 inch polished stone tablet.

No matter what the rank or service of The Eighth Air Force Veteran, equal status is accorded on the Museum's "Wall of Valor".

Please take a moment to make your donation to this timeless, lasting, and worthy place of honor.

The Museum's goal is to see that every person who has ever served in the Eighth Air Force is given a chance to share in this great memorial.

"The Mighty Eighth"

It was the largest air armada in the history of warfare. The heroic actions of the airmen who flew in the Mighty Eighth during World War II preserved freedom throughout the world and changed the course of history. Today men and women continue the fight for liberty and peace serving in the 8th Air Force now headquartered at Barksdale Air Force Base, Louisiana.

THE LEGACY OF THE MIGHTY EIGHTH AIR FORCE

The Eighth Air Force was activated in January 1942 in Savannah, Georgia and was charged with carrying the air war to the enemy in the European Theater of Operations. Their mission was to destroy vital industries and transportation facilities of the Nazi oppressors and thereby neutralize their war-making capability. They were also tasked to secure air superiority in order to permit allied ground troops to land in Europe and liberate countries occupied by German forces. The servicemen of the Mighty Eighth successfully accomplished these missions. Since 1942 the Eighth Air Force has epitomized values important to our country and become a true legacy in American history.

Before World War II ended 350,000 Americans served in the Eighth Air Force, stationed at over fifty-five airbases in England. The 8th Air Force was the largest air force ever assembled and committed to battle. The Eighth airmen suffered the greatest number of casualities of any single American military unit - over 26,000 8th Air Force airmen were killed in action and another 28,000 fliers were taken prisoner after being shot down over enemy territories. The Eighth Air Force never once was turned back by enemy forces on any combat mission they flew. Its tradition of excellence has continued throughout all of America's conflicts, including the Cold War, the Korean War, Vietnam, the Panama Just Cause Operation, the Persian Gulf War, and the Kosovo air campaign.

THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Honoring the Past - Looking Towards the Future

Today these men and women - all heroes of what has been called "The Greatest Generation" - are part of an international organization whose purpose is to honor and commemorate the deeds of those who are part of the legacy of these brave warriors. They are members of the Eighth Air Force Historical Society and they would like you to become one of them. We invite new members of all ages, genders and nationalities, and we would be honored to have you join us in our enjoyable and memorable activities.

The Eighth Air Force Historical Society, founded in 1975 by an original 8th Air Force pilot, Lt. Col. John Woolnough, serves as a central organization for its individual State Chapters and Wings.

- Regular meetings and events are held by local State Chapters which also publish their own Chapter newsletters.
- Society members become part of our commitment to promoting character values such as loyalty, courage, duty, honesty, responsibility, and patriotism to all generations.

- An annual national Historical Society reunion and general membership meeting takes place every Fall at various locations across the nation. Members may offer to be elected to the national Historical Society's Board of Directors which serves to coordinate State Chapter activities.
- The Society's newsmagazine, the 8th Air Force NEWS, is printed quarterly in full-color for all members. The 8th AF NEWS is known as the finest veterans group newsmagazine currently being published.
- Historical Society members interact with other organizations around the world, with an especially active membership base in the United Kingdom.
- Many World War II Bomb Group, Fighter Group, and Airbase Support Group Associations join in activities with the Historical Society.

The 8th Air Force Historical Society also enthusiastically supports the Mighty Eighth Air Force Heritage Museum in Savannah as the permanent home of the Mighty Eighth. The national offices of the Historical Society are located at the Heritage Museum. Together they present and preserve the history and the legacy of the Eighth Air Force.

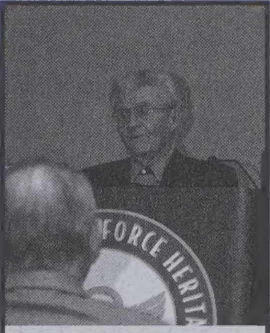
Still Soaring at Sixty!

L/Gen. E.G."Buck" Shuler presents a resolution to retired Col. Kermit D. Stevens, honoring his service in the Eighth as M/Gen Lew Lyle looks on.



B/Gen. Paul W. Tibbets,

In celebration of sixty years of continued service of the Eighth Air Force, The Mighty Eighth Air Force Heritage Museum hosted a full weekend of activities from Friday, January 25 through Sunday, January 27, 2002. On Friday evening, January 25th, the Birthplace Chapter of the 8th Air Force Historical Society hosted a cocktail reception in the Museum. New officers were installed during a special candle lighting ceremony and the keynote speaker was Ms. Yvonne Daley-Brusselmans, who spoke of her mother, Ann, a Belgian Underground worker during WWII who helped rescue scores of downed airmen.

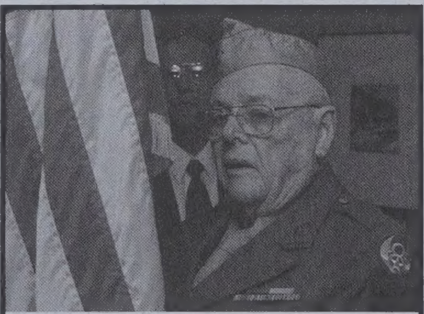
The highlight of the weekend was the Museum's General H. H. "Hap" Arnold lecture series that was held in the Museum on Saturday. Guest speakers included: Mr. Roger Freeman, noted historian and author of multiple books on The Mighty Eighth; Mr. Allen Jones, photographer of the exhibit-Return to Normandy; Lt. Gen. Thomas Keck, current commanding general of the Eighth Air Force; Dr. Donald Miller, award winning author and historian, and professor of history at Lafayette College; and Brig. Gen. Paul W. Tibbets, pilot of The Butcher Shop-one of twelve B17s that flew the first combat mission of the Eighth Air Force over Rouen, France on August 17, 1942, and later, pilot of The Enola Gay the plane that dropped the first atomic bomb on Japan and in effect, won the war.



Mr. Art Howe carries the American flag.

On Sunday morning, January 27th, a memorial service was held in the Museum's Colonial Group, Inc. Art Gallery. Under the direction of Chaplain Martin Loyley, the program reflected on the tremendous sacrifices and courage demonstrated by the men and women of the Eighth Air Force over the past sixty years.

As I recall...

by Debra D. Kujawa

The sixtieth anniversary celebration is now a memory, but I never could have imagined the impact that one weekend would have on my life.

They started arriving early—the veterans. Dressed in well-worn flight jackets, once bright with color logos and patches, now slightly faded and some a bit snug. Some even wore pinks and greens. Baseball caps carried insignia from dozens of organizations. No matter where I turned I heard the stories. Usually one-on-one, but some were in small groups, and the stories were flooding out from every corner of the Museum. I say flooding, because tears accompanied most of them. The mini reunions generated raucous laughter, continuous bear hugs, and a never-ending stream of conversation. Most had decades of past to catch up on.

While the Rotunda embraced the new arrivals, it was the exhibits that seemed to draw these quiet heroes. I watched as they spent hours pouring over photographs, flight gear, and pieces of a past they were determined to remember, one last time.

I was thrilled and honored to meet Brig. Gen. Paul Tibbets, Jr., his son and grandson, Lt. Gen. Tom Keck and his father, retired Lt. Gen. James Keck, Allen Jones, Dr. Don Miller, and Roger Freeman, all of whom are amazing individuals and celebrities in their own right. But it was the visitors—the men who were determined to move Heaven and Earth one last time to get here—they were the ones who touched me in a way that I will always treasure.

Many of those who visited the Museum for the sixtieth anniversary will begin a new journey in the months to come—one that we all will face someday. But I am so grateful for that moment in time when I could share, even for a brief instant, their experiences, their tears, their joy.

Thank you, 'Mighty' Eighth Air Force.

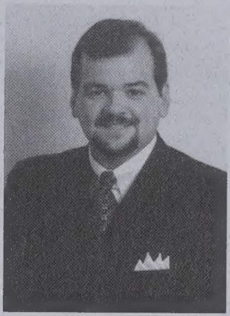
From the president's desk...

by C.J. Roberts, president & CEO



I would like to begin this column by thanking all of those who made the Museum's celebration of the 60th anniversary of the founding of the Eighth Air Force a huge success. Thanks to the hard work of numerous individuals and organizations the anniversary event was a great start to what will prove to be a busy and productive year for the Museum.

We have two more major events coming up in the next couple of months. The first is a USO show and dance on March 22nd. We will be holding this event at Museum trustee, Bob Jepson's hangar at the Savannah International Airport. This will be a terrific setting for an enjoyable and memorable evening. Proceeds from this event will help fund the Museum's education programs. Please see p. 12 in this issue for more information. The other event will be the celebration of the Museum's sixth anniversary on May 18th with the dedication of the Chapel of the Fallen Eagles. Many of you have supported this project over the years. In May, come and see what you have helped to build and enjoy another great weekend of celebrating the history and legacy of The Mighty Eighth. On this same weekend, the Strategic Air Command Society will be holding their annual reunion at the Museum. We look forward to welcoming these victors of the Cold War. As many of you know, a major exhibit is currently in the works that will tell the story of the Eighth Air Force after World War II. Visitors at the sixth anniversary will get a sneak preview of the designs for this compelling new exhibit that will take the story of the Mighty Eighth right up to present day.

> "Now is the time to work together to take our Museum to its next level of excellence."

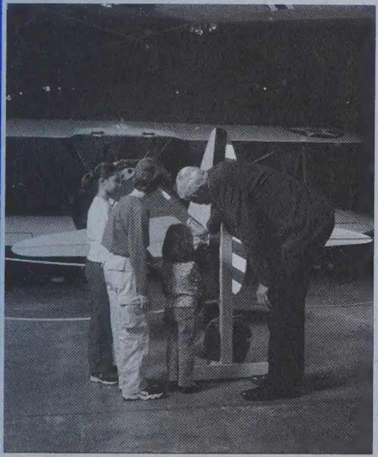
For those of you who have been part of this Museum from the beginning, it is probably hard to believe that six years have passed since the facility opened. Those six years have been marked with huge challenges. In spite of these challenges, the dream of an institution that tells the story of the Mighty Eighth Air Force to thousands of people each year has been realized. Now, it is time to work together to take our Museum to its next level of excellence. The events discussed above in part will help achieve this goal, but the continued support of our members, donors, volunteers, and patrons is the most critical element in our pursuit. We are off to a good start for 2002, let's work together to make the rest of the year the best one yet for this Museum.

The staff joins me in wishing you and your families a healthy, happy, and prosperous new year.



Don't let your stories be forgotten.

Museum staff remembers Charles D. Beard, Jr.

by Walter E. Brown, M.D.

1922 - 2001

Charles D. Beard, Jr. was a member of the board of trustees of the Mighty Eighth Air Force Heritage Museum for the past decade, supporting and taking part in development decisions of the museum from its initial concept. He was always proud of his lifetime association with the 8th Air Force and in preserving its legacy.

Charlie flew his missions during the war with the 96th Bomb Group out of Snetterton Heath in East Anglia. Most of his missions over enemy territory were flown as the copilot of Laces Aces. The mission of March 4, 1944 saw the 45th Combat Wing, made up of the combined forces of the 96th, 388th, and 452nd Bomb Groups, heading for a raid on Berlin. It was to be the first 8th Air Force daylight raid on the German capital.

Charlie and his pilot Paul Herring drew what he called a real "clunker" for that mission, Mischief Maker, as their regular B-17 Flying Fortress was grounded that day for battle damage repairs. Weather closed in after the mission was underway and 8th Air Force Headquarters issued a recall of the groups as they neared Bonn, Germany. Oil pressure problems developed in two engines of Mischief Maker soon after they had dropped their bombs on a railroad yard, and ice began forming on their wing surfaces. A vicious tail attack by Luftwaffe fighters threw the aircraft out of control, but the two pilots were able to level it off enough to allow the crew to bail out over Belgium. Only one engine remained operating.

Some of the crew members were picked up by Belgium resistances forces and returned to American held territory after the D-Day invasion on June 6th. Charlie Beard took an active part during his months with the resistance forces and was successful in fighting German ground troops in a number of conflicts during this time.

After the war, his love of flying continued and he retired from the USAF after a twenty-year career in the air. Charlie returned to Birmingham, Alabama and developed a network of health care businesses to offer medical care and assistance to older infirm people in North Alabama. He was a co-founder of the Alabama Chapter of the Eighth Air Force Historical Society and was its first president. He personally organized the drive to develop and place a monument in the Museum's Memorial Gardens to those Alabama airmen who served in the Mighty Eighth. He was especially proud of the fact that for some time he was the personal friend of and pilot for Paul "Bear" Bryant of Alabama football coaching fame and told a lot of humorous stories about the trips around the country with the legendary coach.

His deep religious beliefs were evident by his interest in and active support of the Chapel of the Fallen Eagles at the Museum, a very special personal project in which he served as a valuable advisor for a number of years. His financial support of the Chapel assured its success. The Chapel with its English gardens will be officially dedicated during the Sixth Anniversary Celebration of the Mighty Eighth Air Force Heritage Museum during the weekend of May 17th, 2002. These gardens are designated the Charles D. Beard, Jr. Gardens in his memory.

Charles Beard passed away November 28th, 2001 at his home in Birmingham. He is survived by his wife, Mary Sue Graham Beard, sons, Charles D. Beard III, John G Beard, and William Gary Beard, and daughters Mrs. Scott (Peggy) Williams and Mrs. David (Susan) Brouillette along with ten grandchildren.

Burial was conducted at Elmwood Cemetery. The family requests that remembrances be made to the Charles D. Beard, Jr. Garden, Mighty Eighth Air Force Heritage Museum, P.O. Box 1992, Savannah, GA 31402-1992.

Dr. Walter E. Brown is vice chairman of the board of trustees for The Mighty Eighth Air Force Heritage Museum.

Book review: Luck of the Draw Reflections on the Air War in Europe

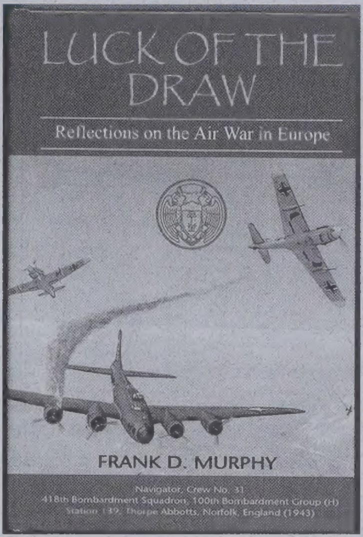
by Rusty Bloxom, chief historian



LUCK OF THE DRAW
Reflections on the Air War in Europe
FRANK D. MURPHY
Navigator, Crew No. 31
418th Bombardment Squadron, 100th Bombardment Group (H)
Station 139, Thorpe Abbotts, Norfolk, England (1943)

Frank Murphy was a young college student, a member of the Emory University dance band, when he had Sunday dinner with his parents in Atlanta on 7 December 1941. An urgent telephone call from a friend of the family to turn on the radio changed the course of the next three and a half years of Frank's life. That Sunday changed every American's life.

Frank's love of aviation led him to the USAAF, and when a problem with his vision threatened his chances for pilot training, he opted to become a navigator. Assigned to the 100th Bomb Group after graduating as a navigator, he deployed to England with the unit in the summer of 1943. He and Crew 31 flew their first combat mission from Thorpe Abbotts on 26 June 1943. On 17 August, he and his crew survived the firestorm of German opposition to the "Double Strike" raid that took the 100th from England to their target, Regensburg, and then down the long haul across the Mediterranean to north Africa. The Eighth lost 60 B-17s that day. By 10 October, Frank was nearing the end of his combat tour, but he was also pushing a harsh law of averages that gave an Eighth Air force aircrewman a one-in-four chance finishing all 25 required missions. For the 100th Bomb Group, 10 October was not a good day to be running on borrowed time. The target that day was Munster.

> "The sight of the green island of England from the air brought back a flood of memories."

Frank Murphy and his crew were brought down by German fighters over Munster that day. Murphy was wounded in the arm, but he was able to get out of the stricken B-17 and get his parachute open. Two of his crewmates were not so lucky. Captured by the Germans, Murphy spent most of the rest of the war in Stalag Luft III, made the grueling march to Stalag VIIA in January 1945, and was liberated by American forces on 29 April 1945. As was the case for most of the young men whose lives had been sidetracked by the events of 1941, Murphy picked up where he had left off, restarted his civilian life, and gave his wartime experiences little thought until business took him back to Great Britain by airplane many years later. The sight of the green island of England from the air brought back a flood of memories. In the 1980s, Murphy started researching the official records of his missions and renewing his contacts with some of his crewmates.

Luck of the Draw is Frank Murphy's recounting of his life from birth to liberation in 1945. His is a well-written, and unlike many personal memoirs, well-researched story. Murphy has gone to great lengths to learn as much about the events that steered him into the nose of a B17 over Germany and into "the bag" at Stalag Luft III as possible, and in relating what he has learned he is very effective in placing his own personal story in the context of the air campaign and the war as a whole. The transition between the "big picture" and the view from a freezing, bouncing navigator's window is generally smooth. Murphy's chapters on his own family and prewar background are entertaining and serve to help the reader identify with the narrator of the story.

The only historic miscue that I spotted was one that we all make when we start studying the big picture history of the Eighth--the perplexing shuffle of names and numbers between Headquarter, Eighth Air Force and Headquarter, VIII Bomber Command. The official Air Force lineage book is confusing and ambiguous, but what happened on 22 February 1944 was this: what had been Headquarters, Eighth Air Force, became Headquarters US Strategic Air Forces Europe (USSTAF), and what had been Headquarters VIII Bomber Command became Headquarters Eighth Air Force. The Eighth Air Force did exist before 22 February 1944. We have orders from HQ Eighth Air Force dated January 1942 from here in Savannah in our collections. I trusted the Air Force lineage book when I put up my first presentation on the Eighth back at the University of North Texas, and I got rather crisply corrected. Oh, well.

Frank Murphy's book, Luck of the Draw, is a welcome addition to the growing bibliography of personal accounts on the air war over Europe during World War II. We are pleased to have received a copy for our library collection.

News from the Eighth:

Mighty 'Ace' remembered...

Francis S. "Gabby" Gabreski
January 28, 1919-January 31,

Famed World War II fighter ace Col. Francis "Gabby" Gabreski, passed away January 31, 2002 at Huntington Hospital on Long Island. He was 83.

Gabreski was born in Oil City, Pennsylvania and became a military pilot in 1941. Gabreski, known as "Gabby" to his friends and admirers, was at Wheeler Field, Hawaii when the Japanese attacked on December 7, 1941. Gabreski flew combat sorties as a liaison officer with the Polish Air Force in England before joining the Eighth Air Force's 56th Fighter Group.

Gabby became the leading ace in the European Theater of operations with 28 confirmed victories before he was shot down and taken prisoner in July 1944. Gabreski returned to active duty during the Korean War and flew as deputy commander of the 4th Fighter Interceptor Wing. He gained 6.5 more victories over Korea, giving him a total score of 34.5 victories. He was one of only seven pilots to gain ace status in both wars. Colonel Francis S. "Gabby" Gabreski will be missed by the Eighth Air Force and by the world's aviation community.

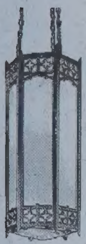
Chapel sponsorship opportunities

We invite you to become a part of the Chapel of the Fallen Eagles with one of the remaining sponsorships. With construction nearing completion we encourage you to consider how you can help to "finish" the chapel in style. Our wish list includes sconces, chandeliers, a tower clock, a carillon, landscaping and walkways. We will need to order these items in time for the chapel dedication, so don't delay.



The lighting fixtures are classic English gothic in design. The narthex chandeliers are hand-forged iron. Each fixture enhances the setting and adds to the experience of a visit to the chapel. The tower clock is 3 feet in diameter with a black dial and gold-tone roman style markers on the face. The carillon will provide various bells, tolls, and peals. In addition an interior sound system will connect the carillon and the CD/Tape player for personal selections to be played for memorial services and weddings.

All sponsorships will be acknowledged in the Chapel Registry that will be on permanent display. Contributions to the chapel project are tax deductible. Please call Judy Walker, director of development, at 912.748.8888 ext. 123 for more information.

Hello John,

That could be our John Baker's parents. Where were they married? If there is a death record for our John who died between 1900 and 1910, it may provide the names of his parents. The death record of Sarah A. BAKER who was buried in Stringtown Cemetery was born 1857 and died 26 August 1911. This was from Darla, but I do not think that it could be James' mother or grandmother since he was born between about 1838 and 1842. According to the Stringtown Cemetery records a Sarah Hall BAKER died 20 August 1911 and there is no birth date given. The Sarah Hall BAKER is probably the wife of Jesse BAKER, a sibling of James.

Later,
Bev

OBITUARY

IDA FLORENCE'S MOTHER

Nancy E. Collier Brown was born Sept. 8, 1848, departed this life Oct.2, 1925, aged 77 years and one month. She was a great sufferer for a number of years and had been confined to her bed more than three years, during which time her daughter, Anna , and family, came to her home to care for her.

OWEN
GREAT GRAMPA

On Dec. 24, 1865, she was united in marriage [illegible] to O. S. Brown, who survives her. To this union were born ten children, of whom five sons and three daughters are left to mourn the loss of a kind and charitable mother, viz: Mrs. Myrtle Scott and Floyd Brown, of Medora; Burrell Brown, Henry Brown, John Brown, Mrs Anna Wilkerson, of (NELSON + BROWN) Leesville; Mrs Ida Wheeler, of Ft. Ritner; James GRANDMA Brown of Sparksville. Also 57 grandchilren, 30 great-grandchildren and one brother, Albert Collier, of Paris, Ill., besides a host of other relatives and friends. In 1863 she confessed her faith in Christ and became a member of Wrays church, and fifteen years ago moved her membership to Leesville, her entire life being spent in Jackson and Lawrence counties.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock at Leesville, INDIANA Rev. Sweet of Medora, officiating, after which the remains were laid to rest in the cemetery nearby. The bereaved ones have our sympathy.

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
All our lives through
God hath not promised
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.

But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy
Undying love . . .

Gillen

The inscription at the base states that the flagpole "is dedicated in memory of the veterans of all wars buried in this cemetery and presented to the citizens of Leesville and surrounding community by Gillen Post 33 of the American Legion."

Gillen Post was organized in time to hold military rites for all three brothers in Leesville Cemetery. Two of the Gillens died overseas and the other died in a hospital in the United States.

When World War I broke out, all three brothers were of draft age — William, the oldest, was 27, Inman was 24 and Frank was 22.

Inman was the first to be drafted and a short time later William was inducted. Frank wanted to join his brothers but failed to pass his physical exam. A few months later Frank tried to enter the Army again and succeeded. He was sent to France where his brothers were serving.

Inman was in Hq. Co. 26th Infantry. Frank was a member of Company B, 112th Infantry, and William served with Battery C, Co. 344F Artillery.

Inman and Frank Gillen died in 1918 and William died in 1919. Reports indicate that Inman, while crossing the Moose River, was hit by shell fragments and killed instantly. Frank died of a bullet wound. William, believed to have suffered from German food poisoning, was shipped back to the United States at the end of the war and entered a VA hospital. He died a few months later.

The Gillen brothers were the first war veterans from Leesville to have been accorded military rites in Leesville Cemetery, where they were buried side by side.

Nelson, the other veteran from Leesville killed in World War I, was buried in Flanders Field in France.

The community of Leesville will never forget the four who gave their lives for this nation in World War I, nor will members of Gillen Post 33 of the American Legion in Bedford.

VILLE — On Arbor Day in 1919 the citizens ville in Lawrence County paid tribute to the n in the community who lost their lives in ar I.

our included the three Gillen brothers, Wilman and Frank — for whom Gillen Post 33 of rican Legion in Bedford was named — and d" Nelson.

s set out four sugar maple trees side by side across the road from the Gillen residence at edge of Leesville. A stone marker with grayed was placed under each tree.

e past 67 years the markers honoring these g men had deteriorated considerably due to nd the trees had overgrown the stone members of Gillen Post 33 decided to do something about it.

Last year Legionnaires Dennis O'Brien (current post commander) of Bedford, Winford Dixon of Fort Ritner and Harry (Buck) Horner of Leesville removed the stone markers, cleaned them, put in new footers and new foundations under each, and made the names on the markers more readable.

In addition to the work on the markers, one of the four trees has had to be replaced in recent years.

The memory of the Gillen brothers has continued through the years. On Aug. 27, 1950, Gillen Post erected a 30-foot flagpole directly in front of the graves of the three brothers in Leesville Cemetery.

That this plaintiff is now and has been for more than six months immediately last past a bona fide resident of Lawrence County and is now and has been for more than two years immediately last past a bona fide resident of the State of Indiana; that this plaintiff and said defendant were married on the 6th day of December, 1921, and lived together as husband and wife until the 15th day of April, 1923, on which last named date they separated and have ever since lived separate and apart. In Virginia, Governor James H. Price has recommended reduction of the tax from $1.50 to $1; reduction in the requirement that three years' tax must be paid as a prerequisite to voting; a shorter period than six months prior to elections for payment and a more earnest effort to collect the taxes.

Other poll tax states are Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas. Poll tax laws have been repealed in Florida, Louisiana and North Carolina.

The inscription at the base states that the flagpole "is dedicated in memory of the veterans of all wars buried in this cemetery and presented to the citizens of Leesville and surrounding community by Gillen Post 33 of the American Legion."

Gillen Post was organized in time to hold military rites for all three brothers in Leesville Cemetery. Two of the Gillens died overseas and the other died in a hospital in the United States.

When World War I broke out, all three brothers were of draft age — William, the oldest, was 27; Inman was 24 and Frank was 22.

Inman was the first to be drafted and a short time later William was inducted. Frank wanted to join his brothers but failed to pass his physical exam. A few months later, Frank tried to enter the Army again, and succeeded. He was sent to France, where his brothers were serving.

Inman was in Hq. Co., 26th Infantry; Frank was a member of Company B, 112th Infantry, and William served with Battery C., Co. 344F Artillery.

Inman and Frank Gillen died in 1918 and William died in 1919. Reports indicate that Inman, while crossing the Moose River, was hit by shell fragments and killed instantly. Frank died of a bullet wound. William, believed to have suffered from German food poisoning, was shipped back to the United States at the end of the war and entered a VA hospital. He died a few months later.

The Gillen brothers were the first war veterans from Leesville to have been accorded military rites in Leesville Cemetery, where they were buried side by side.

Nelson, the other veteran from Leesville killed in World War I, was buried in Flanders Field in France.

The community of Leesville will never forget the four who gave their lives for this nation in World War I, nor will members of Gillen Post 33 of the American Legion in Bedford.

Attorneys for Plaintiff.

THORNTON-LEVEY CO. PRINT, INDIANAPOLIS.

State of Indiana, Lawrence County, ss
In the Lawrence Circuit Court,
November Term, 1923.

John Nelson
vs
Junnita Nelson

The plaintiff, John Nelson, complains of the defendant, Junnita Nelson, and for cause of complaint herein, says:

That this plaintiff is now and has been for more than six months immediately last past a bona fide resident of Lawrence County and is now and has been for more than two years immediately last past a bona fide resident of the State of Indiana; that this plaintiff and said defendant were married on the 6th day of December, 1921, and lived together as husband and wife until the 15th day of April, 1923, on which last named date they separated and have ever since lived separate and apart. That plaintiff and defendant have one child, John Waldon Nelson, who is now about twenty months of age. That the defendant prior to their separation was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment of plaintiff in this, to-wit; that she quarrelled at plaintiff and cursed him without any fault of plaintiff, that she did not stay at home to prepare his meals and a great many times when he came in from work for his meals she would be away from home, that she defendant smoked cigarettes over the objections and protests of the plaintiff, and for the above reasons plaintiff could not live with defendant.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that the bonds of matrimony now existing between plaintiff and defendant be dissolved and that he be granted a divorce from defendant, and for all other proper relief.

Attorney for Plaintiff.

Leesville's Gillen brothers honored by Legionnaires

Claude Parsons
nes-Mail Executive Editor

LEESVILLE — On Arbor Day in 1919 the citizens Leesville in Lawrence County paid tribute to the ır men in the community who lost their lives in rld War I.

The four included the three Gillen brothers, Wilm, Inman and Frank — for whom Gillen Post 33 of American Legion in Bedford was named — and ın "Bud" Nelson.

itizens set out four sugar maple trees side by side ectly across the road from the Gillen residence at north edge of Leesville. A stone marker with ıe engraved was placed under each tree.

ver the past 67 years, the markers honoring these young men had deteriorated considerably due to ther and the trees had overgrown the stones, so members of Gillen Post 33 decided to do something about it.

Last year Legionnaires Dennis O'Brien (current post commander) of Bedford, Winford Dixon of Fort Ritner and Harry (Buck) Horner of Leesville removed the stone markers, cleaned them, put in new footers and new foundations under each, and made the names on the markers more readable.

In addition to the work on the markers, one of the four trees has had to be replaced in recent years.

The memory of the Gillen brothers has continued through the years. On Aug. 27, 1950, Gillen Post erected a 30-foot flagpole directly in front of the graves of the three brothers in Leesville Cemetery.

God hath not promised
Skies always blue,
Flower-strewn pathways
All our lives through
God hath not promised
Sun without rain,
Joy without sorrow,
Peace without pain.

But God hath promised
Strength for the day,
Rest for the labor,
Light for the way
Grace for the trials,
Help from above,
Unfailing sympathy
Undying love . . .

I starting at the beginning of my folder and sending things I think you might like. I have an original copy of James McMichael's will but don't think it would send a good copy. Included is my transcription of it. Will send more as time permits. Some of this is what we have found, some has been sent to me from other cousins we've been in contact with. Will you have your computer with you when you go to Florida?

Earth has lost its look of gladness,
Heaven seems to us more bright,
Since the spirit of our dear ones,
Took their happy homeward flight.

And we long to cross that river,
Long to rest upon that shore,
There to see and know and love them,
With the Savior, evermore.
